

Santander Universities Entrepreneurship Awards 2019

Santander Universities

Who are we and what do we do?

Santander Universities was launched in Spain in 1996 by Emilio Botín, who recognised that universities play an important role in society. He believed that Santander should support these institutions through the provision of scholarships, mobility awards, entrepreneurship funding and much more. Santander Universities now has over 1,200 university partners spanning across 20 countries and has donated over €1.5b globally since 2002. In 2007 the scheme was launched in the UK and now has partnerships with over 80 universities, providing over £10m of funding in 2018 to support university staff and students.

Santander Universities Entrepreneurship Awards

We launched the Santander Universities Entrepreneurship Awards in 2011. Since then, it has grown to be one of the UK's largest student and graduate business pitching competitions. We reward entrepreneurs by offering cash prizes, mentoring and start-up support and have so far given away more than £420,000 to start-ups and small businesses.

2019 competition

Following the competition's success in previous years, we're delighted to announce the 2019 competition. We'll be taking applicants through three important stages as the competition progresses to make sure the experience helps you grow your business. This document will provide you with important information about the competition and how to get involved.

1. You and your idea

2. Understanding your business

3. Growing your business

How does the competition work?

Stage 1

You and your idea

For the first stage of the competition we'll be collaborating with our partner universities to identify their best student and graduate businesses. At this stage we'll be providing support on campus alongside the universities through activities such as competitions and pitching events. Although we'll be helping on campus, it's up to each university to select their top businesses to put forward into the next stage of the competition. You can find out more about how to get involved from your university.

Once each university has selected their businesses, they'll need to provide Santander with a two minute video for each outlining the idea behind the business and how it came about. This will also be supported by a completed business model canvas (template issued by Santander) that will provide us with an insight into the inner workings of your idea or business. If you're nominated by your university as one of the businesses they want to put forward then your submission will be passed to Santander by the university competition coordinator.

Once all of the nominations from our partner universities have been received we'll review them to identify a list of businesses that will be invited to the next stage of the competition. Please note that we'll be putting through a maximum of 60 entries. All unsuccessful entries at this stage will be invited to join us as a guest at the regional and national finals.

Judging criteria – Important

In your video we'll be looking for:

- a clear explanation of your business or organisation, its purpose and impact and an understanding of the problem that it solves for customers or communities;
- an understanding of where your business or idea came from (i.e. personal challenge or as a result of studying); and
- evidence of how winning the competition would help you grow your business.

We'll also be judging the completed business model canvas based on the information provided in each of the areas contained within the template. Please note that each area of the canvas will be weighted equally and that the video and business model canvas will both be worth 50% of the total score for this stage.

Stage 2

Understanding your business

Stage 2 will see the successful applicants present their business to a panel of experienced judges at one of three regional heats in June. The universities represented within each region can be found in the appendix. The event will take place in front of an audience and give you the chance to talk about, and potentially expand on, your business model canvas that you submitted as part of the first stage of the competition. You'll have five minutes to present which will be followed by a five minute Q&A session. Information around the location and timings of these events will be provided to successful applicants.

Up to 12 businesses will then be selected to progress to the final stage. These businesses will receive £500 of seed funding and secure a place at the national final. A further six businesses will also be selected by the audience at the regional heats in June and will compete for a separate People's Choice prize at the final.

All entries that do not progress at this stage will receive a certificate congratulating them on being shortlisted and a start-up gift set.

Judging criteria – Important

Your pitch will be marked on your ability to demonstrate an understanding of four key areas.

1. Your customers.
2. Your product and/or service and the impact it has on customers and communities.
3. Your business model and its viability.
4. What the impact of winning the competition would be.

Please note that although some of this information would have been submitted earlier in the competition, the expectation is that presenters should use the time to ensure the judging panel have a clear idea of how the business works and its viability. Each of the areas above will be considered by the judging panel who will then select the businesses that will progress at the event.

Stage 3

Growing your business

The accelerator week

Following the three regional heats, the successful businesses will be invited to attend an accelerator week which will provide them with a unique educational experience led by a series of innovative businesses and speakers. Details of the partners participating in the event will be announced over the coming months.

During this week finalists will participate in a series of workshops and masterclasses aimed at helping you understand how to get the most from your business. This information will also help inform the presentation you will deliver at the final in London. Please note that expenses for finalists will be covered by Santander (see Terms and Conditions for further details).

What's more, to help prepare you for the final and future pitches to investors we'll also be running a pitch training session during the summer for all finalists.

The accelerator week – a snapshot

In the 2018 edition, finalists attended a three day event at University College London's accelerator BaseKX, where they heard from leading organisations including Santander, Microsoft, iProspect, Scandinavian Stories and UCL.

The national final

The last part of the competition will be the national final which will take place in October at an exclusive venue in London. Teams will be expected to deliver a five minute presentation followed by a six minute Q&A session. The judging panel for this event will include high profile entrepreneurs, leading academics, Santander executives and business leaders.

Following the presentations the judges will select two winners and two runners up.

The two winning businesses will receive:

- £25,000 of equity-free seed funding
- Mentoring from business experts
- A fully funded intern
- £500 digital growth voucher from Talent Cupboard

The two runners up will receive:

- £15,000 of equity-free seed funding
- Mentoring from business experts
- A fully funded intern
- £500 digital growth voucher from Talent Cupboard

Judging criteria – Important

Your pitch at the national final will be judged on the following criteria. Each will be weighted equally and scored from 1 to 10:

- Business/organisation mission, purpose and overview
- Understanding of your customers and your value proposition
- Demonstration of learning from accelerator week
- Growth strategy and impact

People's Choice

The six People's Choice businesses chosen at the regional heats will pitch in front of the audience at the national final and the winning business will receive:

- £7,500 of equity-free seed funding
- A fully funded intern
