

Site Specific Workshops – Queensgate Market Mural Project in Huddersfield

By Kasia Breska

- Call for participation in workshops with artist Kasia Breska – open to staff and students from the University of Huddersfield.
- Kasia Breska works as a visual artist with a focus on large scale artwork in a context of site specificity. She has a strong interest in space visual dynamics, space perceptions and multidimensional concepts of space, where history, physical elements and culture are at its core.
- Breska works with a technique of murals, drawings, prints, where symbolism, flat large spaces of colour, map elements, language and its scripts are all part of her practice. Further details: @pencilboxgirl
- All staff and students are invited, not only from creative studies but anyone who is interested in the history, architecture and cultural significance of the market and Huddersfield.
- Workshops will take place in one of the spaces available at the Queensgate Market. Activities will involve drawing, collage, working with colour, using various scales, collaborative artwork, photography, walk around the market, conversations, and general creative brain storming with biscuits etc.
- Depending on the number of participants, the artist will run up to three workshops, 2h each, with up to 8 people per session.
- The timescale is flexible, arrangements will take place between May and June. To express your interest in participating, please email: Kasia Breska: kasiabreska@yahoo.com
